Conference & Dinner 2022
Participant pack

Message from the Chairman

Dear friends & colleagues,

It has been a long and tiring couple of years for many of us around the world but it is with unbridled pleasure and joy that I want to welcome all of you to the 2022 CAA International Cocoa Conference in Asia, the first major international cocoa & chocolate event for our tight-knit industry in over 2 years. This will be a chance for many of us to reconnect and celebrate the resilience that we have collectively shown as an industry over this difficult recent time in human history and we at the CAA could not be more delighted to welcome this sold-out crowd to Singapore. (250 conference participants and more than 500 gala dinner guests!)

Our theme for this conference will be “Resilience: Writing the Next Chapter of Asian Cocoa”; we hope that those of you joining us will be able to learn more about the future of our vibrant cocoa & chocolate industry in the Asia Pacific and what it holds in store for various stakeholders. We hope that you all take the time to reconnect and make new connections that will serve you and your businesses well into the future. We have an exciting agenda with lots of valuable content to support this and a record expected turnout for the closing gala dinner on 2nd September. Beyond the familiar faces, we will see visiting internationally, we’re also delighted to confirm that we will have among us important delegates from our colleagues in West Africa in attendance!

Thank you all for your support through the years, my Exco and I cannot wait to welcome you all to Singapore to celebrate our vibrant & dynamic industry in person once again.

Counting down the days

Alvin Lee

Chairman

Cocoa Association of Asia

On behalf of CAA and our Executive Board, we welcome all our distinguished guests to this beautiful city state Singapore

Located right in the heart of Asia, Singapore thrives as an international financial and trading hub. Known for its efficiency, skilled workforce, strong trade agreements, excellent infrastructure, and extensive and high-growth networking base, Singapore is a compelling destination for business and conventions. Beneath Singapore's business legacy, discover a rich social fabric that is vibrant, colourful and unique in many ways.

This participant pack will provide details about the conference you have signed up for and useful information like travel advisories, transportation, dress codes, etc. We hope you will have a great time of knowledge sharing and also networking.

Please also ensure you have your QR code tickets ready.

We also take this opportunity to thank our members, sponsors, exhibitors, panellists and support staff who have contributed to the successful organization of the Cocoa Association of Asia's International Cocoa Conference 2022 (CCAICC 2022)

Singapore Travel Essentials

Weather

- Located just one degree north of the equator, Singapore has a tropical climate with temperatures ranging from 25 to 34 degrees Celsius (77 to 93 degrees Fahrenheit) all year long. Although most days are sunny, Singapore does experience the occasional downpour, so have an umbrella handy!

Time Zone: Singapore Standard Time (SST) GMT+8

Language:

- While English is the main language used for business and education throughout the city-state, Singapore actually has four official languages - Malay, Mandarin, Tamil and English - with Malay being Singapore's national language.

Socket Type: Type G

Currency:

- The local currency is the Singapore dollar (S$). Money changers are readily available at Singapore Changi Airport, and at many shopping centres and hotels in the city. You may also choose to withdraw money using major credit cards (Visa, MasterCard, American Express) from any automated teller machines (ATMs), which can be easily found throughout the city.

The international dialling code is +(65).

- With an international roaming service, you can dial local 8-digit phone numbers without adding +(65).

Goods & Services Tax

- Goods & Services Tax (GST) in Singapore is 7%.
- Spend at least S$100 a day from selected retailers to qualify for refunds. Enjoy tax-free shopping at retailers that offer the Tax Refund service.
- At other retailers, ask for GST Refund Forms and retain your receipts to get your refund processed at the airport right before you fly out of Singapore. Tax refunds do not apply if you are leaving by land or sea.

Passport

- Most foreigners coming into Singapore not require a visa for entry, and may be given a social visit pass for up to 30 days upon arrival in Singapore. All visitors must have a valid passport with at least 6 months validity, onward or return air ticket. To find out if you require a visa to enter Singapore, kindly check with the Immigration and Checkpoint Authority of Singapore (ICA). The application procedure can be found on ICA website.

Tipping is not mandatory:

- Tipping is not common in Singapore, and service employees normally do not anticipate gratuities, though they are appreciated if you want to acknowledge good service.

14:10 - 15:40 Plenary 1: Macroeconomic Outlook for Asia and the World

Asia continues to be projected as the fastest growing region in an increasingly volatile global macro-environment. In this session, we'll debate what the near and longer-term economic outlooks hold for us in the cocoa and chocolate space. Will China continue to tease with its demographic potential for growth in consumption or will India usurp its great rival? Where else in the region should the industry look to place its bets.

16:00 - 17:30 Plenary 2: Cocoa Fundamentals Outlook for Asia: Supply and Demand

The outlook of global cocoa production in the 2022/23 marketing year remains uncertain as high global farm inputs prices and global logistics disruptions could still hamper cocoa tree's productivity in major cocoa-producing countries. Meanwhile, a combination of global geopolitical tensions and the lingering covid-19 pandemic, which are likely to reduce global economic growth in 2022, could still dampen global chocolate consumption growth in 2022. Oscar Tjakra, Executive Director of Rabobank, will discuss what the future holds for cocoa production and consumption in Asia. Where are the future bright spots for growth and the dark clouds?

Climate Friendly Cocoa? What can the industry do?

Global climate action needs to accelerate rapidly over the next decade to avoid the worst impacts of climate change and transform economies to a low carbon pathway.

The 2022 conference's Industry Development Partner USAID Green Invest Asia will be hosting the networking session by kicking off a panel engagement on climate-friendly cocoa as part of the Cocoa Association of Asia's biennial International Conference & Dinner.

Global forest loss caused by cocoa production was roughly 2-3 million hectares from 1988 to 2008, which equalled approximately 1% of total forest loss. (mightyearth, n.d.) From 2000 to 2014, the global production of cocoa beans increased by 32 per cent - from 3.4 to 4.5 million tonnes - while the land-use footprint of cocoa plantations grew by 37 per cent - from 7.6 to 10.4 million hectares.

With the demand for cocoa expected to continue to grow and competition for agricultural land also set to increase, the sector is faced with the urgent task of establishing more sustainable production practices (Alison Hoare, 2017). To change this trajectory, several leading companies in the industry have made net-zero commitments and prioritized the reduction of GHG emissions from changing land use through making needed strides toward sustainable cocoa production.

The session will feature a conversation among industry leaders to discuss practical actions, challenges, and the pathway to reducing carbon emissions for more resilient cocoa production. Panellists will draw from their experience in adopting sustainable sourcing strategies, developing appropriate metrics, and/or developing business models that take into consideration the impacts of climate change.

08:00 - 08:30 Registration & Badge collection

08:30 - 10:00 Plenary 3: Marketing and Innovation Trends for Asian Cocoa and Chocolate

The COVID-19 pandemic changed consumer priorities, leading to an increased demand for healthy, immunity-boosting, and ecologically sound food and beverage products. Asians of all demographic profiles have shifted their cooking habits, taste preferences and shopping behaviours, resulting in new sales channels forming and crossing. As the pandemic is starting to recede, which of these new consumer interests will remain in the long term? And how do these market trends impact cocoa and chocolate in Asia?

Plenary 4: Sustainability and Social Responsibility in Asian Cocoa

Sustainability is an increasingly hot topic in cocoa, both for risk mitigation and for driving brand value. During this segment, we'll explore what consumers care the most about in various regional markets and the local impact of global "hot topics" like child labour and deforestation. We'll also focus on the state of livelihoods for Asian cocoa farmers - what's improved, what hasn't changed at all, and how we can ensure the riches pass down to those who need it most.

Plenary 5: Women in Cocoa and Chocolate Asia

The critical role of women in advancing agricultural and rural development, and in ensuring food security, has been widely acknowledged. Achieving sustainable cocoa development, then, is not only the empowerment of women for the advancement of agriculture and rural life; it is the full engagement of women with men in the construction of a new social order - at the level of family, community and institutions. Women represent a great source of untapped potential in our effort to advance collective prosperity. Mars will be sharing their recent findings surrounding female empowerment and women's role in the Cocoa supply chain.
